Dear Conference Participant,

Please feel heartily welcome to the 9th EMES International Research Conference on Social Enterprise, hosted by Frankfurt University of Applied Sciences in Frankfurt am Main/Germany.

Why this conference? As the resilience of economies and societies is being tested ever more by war, climate change and epidemic health risks inter alia, it is high time to reflect on the contribution that social enterprises and cooperative and voluntary action can make locally and in a global context. Continuous progress against hunger and early childhood death, diseases and natural calamities is not assured. COVID 19 and other recent developments clearly demonstrate the fragility of regional and global infrastructures, production, trade and transport systems as well as previously believed social certainties. Many systems need to undergo rapid transformation at the same time. Thus any research community is challenged to listen, watch, observe, survey and explain at ever growing speed while devising new methodological approaches, methods and theories. The 9th EMES conference is a rare opportunity for all scholars focussing on social enterprises, cooperatives, the social and solidarity economy, social innovation and social impact to discuss, test, joyfully embrace or critically appraise each others development of thought and argument about the role and potential of social enterprises and cooperative and voluntary action in these changing times.

Why Frankfurt? Our city might not be known for social economy activities as yet but they do exist in manifold forms. Exceptionally for Germany, Frankfurt was never ruled feudally. Perhaps this contributed to a wealth of civic and philanthropic organisations and social enterprise activities developing ever since Medieval times. As a town of commerce and arts, a special concern for vulnerable or trekking individuals and migrant communities is evident until today in Frankfurt.

To be asked to organize this Conference in Germany is a great honor and a serendipitous opportunity. The German Government is just about to develop first strategy elements to support social economy organizations beyond the traditional welfare sector (Gemeinwohlorientierte Unternehmen). A social innovation strategy is close to being published. Research shows that 75% of all German start-up entrepreneurs are looking for positive social or ecological meaning while one third of investments are made into ecological or regional development. How befitting that the Federal Ministry of Economic Affairs and Climate Action is patron to this conference! All of this is in alignment with the recent recommendations of the European Commission to the EU Council, of the OECD, of the ILO, and the most relevant of the United Nations Assembly, in a European and international SE field momentum.

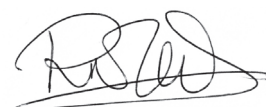

Our heartfelt gratitude goes to our partners and supporters in this event: Frankfurt University of Applied Sciences, Fachbereich 4, the Förderverein, the Competence Center for Social Intervention Research, the City of Frankfurt, Volksbank Mittelhessen, Siemens Stiftung, Polytechnische Gesellschaft, DZ Bank Stiftung, as well as the Zentralverband der Konsumgenossenschaften. We at EMES are greatly looking forward to meeting you at the 9th EMES international research conference. International scientific events like this become a success because of the participants investing themselves. These days, we know, the opportunity to do so cannot be taken for granted. We hope that you will thoroughly enjoy what promises to be an exciting programme of varied, high quality conference papers from upcoming and established scholars in the wide field of social enterprise.

About the organizers

EMES International Research Network has held nine international conferences since 2004. It gathers 15 established university research centres and nearly 400 individual researchers from over 50 countries. Together, we aim to build up a body of knowledge around our SE concepts including social enterprise, social economy, solidarity economy and social innovation working on international research projects and exchanging on research topics, results and methodologies. We believe in the power of connecting a community of researchers around the world to advance the SE fields. EMES seeks to intercommunicate each other's interests, publications and related information while exchanging opportunities for joint publications and research initiatives.

Frankfurt University of Applied Sciences (FRA-UAS) With more than 15,500 students and 1,000 employees, Frankfurt University of Applied Sciences is one of the largest universities of applied sciences in Germany. Excellent quality of teaching and research as well as extensive international networks are the claim. Frankfurt University of Applied Sciences Four faculties offer 72 degree programmes with technical, economic, legal and social orientation. In addition, sophisticated inter- and transdisciplinary research is conducted. In dialogue with partners from business, associations and institutions, Frankfurt UAS is an innovative development partner in order to jointly generate forward-looking solutions. The close linking of research and teaching with practice ensures that graduates are able to connect with the world of work. Founded in 1971 as the University of Applied Sciences Frankfurt am Main, the campus is located close to the city centre in the heart of Frankfurt.

KomSI is a research center formed by an interdisciplinary team of professors from Frankfurt University of Applied Sciences (FRA-UAS)/Department of Social Work and Health working in close cooperation with external researchers. The work of KomSI includes: Research on social intervention methods and processes aimed at reducing poverty, homelessness and unemployment, mitigating negative effects of disability, migration and flight, violence, criminality, radicalisation and many more. Interventions in all these areas are being researched on the professional, organisational and institutional levels. Among other scientific conferences, KomSI has organized an EMES/EmpowerSE COST Workshop on Social Enterprises in Social and Health Services in 2019.

EMES is about networking

Networking

As you know, EMES conferences are all about meeting wonderful researchers who are great people as well so we have color-coded the name tags to facilitate the identification of your colleagues and peers so you have an idea before approaching new people. We will use the following identifiers on the delegates name tags:

- Red dot: member of EMES
- Blue dot: PhD student
- Green dot: new at an EMES conference

Social media

If you are active on the social media, please be sure to follow us on Facebook and Twitter! You can find below the names of organisers and supporters as well as hashtags that we'll be using during the Conference:

Kick la Luna

Meet the band that will be accompanying us during the Conference dinner

"Hardly any other German band has such a wide range of world music. With their ethno-crossover, they are therefore right on trend. After 30 years, they are more present than ever in the music scene. The good mood and positive energy of the musicians of KICK LA LUNA is simply infectious. With their 10th CD "Nicht ohne uns" (Not without us) they refine their unmistakable style: "...Characteristic polyphonic vocals, powerful soul voices, infectious hooklines, complex Afro-Brazilian rhythms, modern salsa arrangements, Funk riffs and engaging lyrics are the hallmarks of their songs..."
